Overhaul your wardrobe at trendy used clothing boutiques

by Dennis Mackay

If you're an individualist anxious to give your wardrobe the once-over, look no further than the used clothing boutiques that have popped up in the hope that this alternative can save money.

Looking in the beautifully lit, brightly lit rooms of the shopping and sales outlets, you will find it almost impossible to resist the temptation to take home a few items.

The range of the dress and shirt collections is vast, with the latest styles in vogue.

These stores, which have sprung up all over the city, are a great place to find the latest styles in the most fashionable clothing.

There are a few special features that will attract the eye of the fashion-conscious. Most of the clothes are brand new and priced at half the price of the original. A complete wardrobe can be bought for less than $100.

NIVALCARNIVALCARNIVAL

With no snowfall, a fair amount of rain, above average temperatures, and the promise of an early spring, the groundhog said so, there wasn't much "polar" in last week's Polar Party. But with or without the "polar" there was "party" as the Dene Student Association sponsored an event- and fun-filled week of entertainment during its annual Winter Carnival.

Your internal bomb

When each and every one of us enters a thinking state, waiting for the right moment to explode. The bomb is in latent violence.

This image is Joseph von Schwaner's view of human nature and the present course of problems in the world today. Von Schwaner is the social representative of an international group called The Community. Under 1911/12, or 1912/13, The Community advances Schwaner's but its also are many individual and less organized than the several today groups such as 1912/13.

In this language, your nuclear development is not adequate to your needs in the world of 1912/13.

"Our technology is an advanced state, even if we do not of nuclear weapons it would simply produce about half of biological weapons just as effective. What we need do is find an energy, leaving systems to reduce an effect, safe human competition to natural violence."

In his opinion, this can only come when individuals want more than they have this, water and food, within themselves and make an effort to improve it.

Von Schwaner, a political exile from Chile, described himself as an escapee from Pinochet's (the current president of Chile) influence. He came to Canada in 1977, and has been working for almost two at The Community and Agency International in the 1970s and 1980s.

His wife (Rosa) is currently a director of the 1912/13, the local development center for the local 1912/13.
